VIGOR NEEDED IN FIGHT AGAINST SIN

Sincerity, Clearness and Force
Keynotes of New Pastor's Sermon.

Presenting masterly advice on the power and complete authority of God, the Rev. Frank J. Scribner Sunday morning preached his first sermon as pastor of the First Congregational church here.

The new pastor, who comes from Milwaukee, was heartily welcomed. Nearly every pew of the church was filled and a renewed vigor and enthusiasm was evident among the congregation at both services yesterday. The morning sermon was given with commendable clearness, sincerity, force, and with a pleasing personality.

Taking for his text the thought of "God Over All," he showed the strength of "One God and Father of All, Who is ever all, through all, and in all."

The Highest Motive.

The fundamental characteristics of God in his final and complete authority were traced to their present application. The new pastor laid before his hearers the fact that Jesus had lived out His picture of what God is like, enabling men to know of the Father. The vital contention spoken by Rev. Mr. Scribner was that the highest motive of all is the love of Jesus Christ, and that the unstinted authority of God cannot be disputed.

"The fight against sin calls for this enthusiasm," said Mr. Scribner. "Among all our reasons for being good there is not one but what now and then loses its hold upon us. It isn't that we fear the battle, but sometimes we fear the loss of what God is. There are times when conscience itself is sleeping, and we have got to get over the idea that clear conscience is all the justification that a man needs to justify his conduct."

"Every generation sees hideous sins that persist simply because the consciences of good people are too torpid to arouse against them. There are things we refuse to face, sins within us to which we will not open our eyes."

Fear of God.

"When all else fails for us, the fear of God is left. And that is the point on which there is not an argument. There are matters which call for a voice of freedom. We over in this age of freedom, we must be thankful that there is left always God's greatness. His sternness even, which is a higher appeal. There is a hard, relentless spur of just plain duty. When we fail to overcome wrong through love, we pray for the fear of God in our hearts, the majesty of God before our eyes, and that we are subjects of His Kingdom."

"No man can be a Christian without being a servant of God."

"It is all right when things go along swimmingly. Before the World War the world was as we had as we were, social legislation making headway, saloons on the run, missions never so prosperous in a general way of progress. And for each to do his piece of work with the conviction that it was a part of a triumphant movement."

Price of War.

"Then came a time when all that a century and a half of liberties of man is hustled out of the way of the army and all that two centuries had hoped to be is mortgaged for the war. When it is not so easy. Right now are we advancing? We cannot evade that question. There is one answer. 'The God and Father of us all is ever all.'"

"We know well the discouragements that confront our work in life. We realize our limited power of activity. The homemaker knows of the bitterness of the hours when the eternal round of three meals a day seems an iron ring, shutting her off from a real usefulness, until the ideals of a kingdom seem a mockery. There are hours when life seems a failure."

"Those dark moods are the worst discouragement is in the text, 'God and Father of us all is ever all.' When we realize our own littleness, our refuge is in God's greatness."

"A higher motive and which is widely felt is human love. A man and woman often center their very religion in the life of a child; and for the sake of that child keep watch of their own conduct. The highest motive of all is the love of Jesus Christ. That is a compulsion that knows no change and that is infinite in its power."

"God is over all. Let us remember His love, His nearness, His sharing of His work with His children," concluded the pastor.

During the morning service a pleasing solo was sung by Mrs. Stewart Richards. It was announced by L. A. Markham that more than $10,000 had been raised in the church's ever-member campaign for the budget of $15,000.

Railroad.—A clash between physicians over the cause of death of an eight-year-old girl resulted, in the postponement of funeral and the holding of a post mortem. The death of Caroline Peterson caused a sensation in the medical fraternity when the investigation by officers of the state health board caused a difference in the opinions of the physicians. Some claimed that death was due to bronchitis, others claim diphtheria.

SEEKS $500 FOR BROKEN NOSE AND TWO "BLACK" EYES

Alleging that he suffered a broken nose and two "black" eyes, which should be paid for by George Whiting, a damage suit has been filed in municipal court here by Roy Lightyzer. The attack is claimed to have happened November 28. Damages of $500 are asked from Whiting.

CAR SKIDS IN MUD, RIDER IS INJURED

Evansville Autoists Meet With Accident, Driver Not Hurt.

[By Gazette Correspondent.]
Evansville.—While returning home Sunday evening about four miles east of Evansville, William Boyle's automobile skidded in the mud and turned turtle. Mr. Boyle escaped with few cuts from broken windshield while his cousin, James Sarrington, was seriously injured. He had several ribs broken and his spine sprained. He was taken to the hospital. The car was badly damaged.

MISS KISS CHANGED NAME BUT NOT BY GETTING MARRIED

Cleveland.—It only costs $1.40 to have one's name changed in probate court here, and it's not a difficult court procedure. It costs $1 to advertise the fact according to the law, 40 cents is charged as a filing fee, and the court costs are about $3.

And so far as known the Cuyahoga county probate court has never received a request.

"Why should the court object?" asked E. N. Fairbanks, a deputy. "Most persons have mighty good reasons for giving up their ancestral names."

Reasons given vary greatly. A woman given the name of Kiss asked to change to Murphy. "It sounds like a business name," she stated in her petition.

Another woman changed her name from Beagle to Bailey, and one from Smuck to Zeeder.

A large number of petitioners say their original names are a detriment to their business. Many desire to change because their names are hard to pronounce and spell and that there are too many similar ones in Cleveland.

Many entire families petition to have their names changed, particularly foreign-speaking people who have children in school.

Many men seldom take their wives' name, according to the records.

HOUSEWIVES FIND ECONOMY IN PUBLIC MILK STATIONS

L. A. Crose.—As a result of the survey of public milk stations in the city, housewives in voting booths of this city, housewives of L. A. Crose are able to buy milk from 4 to 6 cents per quart cheaper than charged by dairymen who deliver their product, bottled, to consumers.

At the three public milk stations in the city milk is sold in bulk to consumers, men, women and children with pails, jars and bottles standing in line and waiting for their turn at the counter where the milk producers measure out and sell their product.

The sale of milk in the public stations is under the supervision of the city health department and every possible precaution is taken to keep the utensils and milk clean. Women are engaged to scrub the booths and clean the tables on which the milk is measured.

Customers who buy milk at the public stations save the cost of delivery, the cost of bottling milk and one middleman's profit. The producers who sell their milk at the public stations say they make just as much money as they would in delivering the product bottled to the consumers.

So successful have the voting booth stations been that they have been opened in grocery stores in outlying sections of the city, and milk is sold in bulk at these places at 10 and 11 cents for a short time in the morning. Patrons who come late are forced to take the higher priced bottled milk.

HINTS TO PREVENT CHRISTMAS FIRES

Let no preventable fire mar the joy of Christmas, is the plea of J. E. Flynn, state superintendent of fire prevention, in a bulletin to Chief Con J. Murphy. The chief asks that attention be paid to this advice:

"Set the tree on a firm standard so that it cannot be tipped over. Use metallic tinsel and other non-inflammable decorations only, and powdered mica and fibre asbestos to represent snow."

"Do not permit the children to light the candles except in presence of adults. Electrical illumination is safer, but should be installed by an electrician."

"Remove the tree before the needles become dry."

"Special caution must be exercised in churches, schools, stores and bazars, where fires are liable to cause panics and holocausts."

INVENTORY FARMS FOR BUYING LIST

Advertise Rock County Farm Products Through County Agent.

Farmers of Rock county are urged to co-operate in the establishment of a buying and selling list schedule through the office of the county agent. Announcement that this branch of a complete farm work would be pushed was made by R. T. Glasco, Rock county agriculture agent, today.

A card index is to be made up of all stock and farm produce which Rock county men have to sell. Good service and promotion of this work depends on a complete and correct listing of stock and material which the farmer wishes to place on the market.

Outside Buyers

There are buyers from all sections of the central west seeking to buy graded and pure blooded cattle and hogs. There have been calls for Rock county stock as far as New York state and from Oregon and California in the west. Field men are often sent out representing an association of breeders or combination of dairy men seeking quality cattle.

A carefully compiled list of stock in the hands of the county agent will enable the outside buyers to at once locate the stock they are in the market to buy.

Advertise County

It is planned to make an active campaign to advertise Rock county farm products nationally during the coming year. With a complete stock list available the county agent will be able to put the products of the farmers before the eyes of the buyers. Last year more than 1,500 letters were sent out by the county agent to put the products of the county farmers before the eyes of the buyers.

In marketing cattle is deemed highly important to have available complete test records of an animal. Buyers are anxious for data of milk production and official test marries.

It is planned to list Rock county's market with the marketing department of the department of agriculture. This state sales list is sent throughout the United States.

There are four associations of stock breeders in the county handling Holsteins, Duroc-Jerseys, Guernseys and Shorthorns. They plan a vigorous advertising campaign to place Rock county's products in the market for pure bloods and high grades.

Realization of a sales pavilion will be an added impetus to this work of aiding the farmer to find a market for his products.

Present plans are for the listing of hogs, sheep, corn, seed grain, oats, and barley.

"Not only will it make it possible for the outside buyer to quickly and effectively locate the exact type and kind of stock he is after but it will also act as an exchange for local trade in the county," said County Agent Glasco. "It will enable the farmer to buy his wants from one agent by consulting the list and finding out who has the desired product."

Tolson.—A new gas car on the Southeastern railroad comes to service this week. It will seat 41 persons. A steam car was tried out some time ago and rejected as inferior to the gas car.

GIRL, TRAPPED IN HOTEL, LEAPS

Prefers Death to Facing Father, Is Injured, May Recover.

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 13.—Preferring death to facing her father, who had trailed her to a room in the Broadway hotel, Superior, where she was registered, a 18-year-old girl, Ruth Rust, leaped from the window of the room on the third story, early Sunday morning.

Denied the death she sought, the girl Sunday night was lying in St. Mary's hospital pleading that she be allowed to die.

Man Is Arrested.

The man escaped from the room during the excitement following the girl's leap from the window. An hour later, R. V. Sanders, son of the postmaster at Osceola, Wis., was arrested at the Union depot in Superior, and identified by the father as the man who had been in the hotel room with the girl. He is being held without charge by the Superior police.

Strikes Steel Canopy.

The girl pelted down two stories and then struck a steel canopy overhanging the street in front of a theater. Attendants at the theater, who were on duty, carried the girl to the street and taken to the hospital. Physicians said that she would probably recover.

Sanders is a salesman for a Chicago grocery company.

Father Is Suspicious.

Suspicious of the daughter's absence from her home, the girl's father, a clerk for the Northern Pacific railway at Duluth, engaged a detective.

He followed the girl to Superior, where he knocked on the door of the hotel room.

When the detective announced the father of the girl was outside, the girl, who was outside, heard a shriek, followed by a crash of broken glass. The girl had leaped out of the window.

Will Not Suffer.

The girl is said to have been infatuated with Sanders despite objections of her parents who knew of her acquaintance with him. In a letter she wrote to Sanders several days ago she said: "I only hope everything will turn out all right. It is my fault it will be I who will suffer. I know you have suffered too, but in the long run, I will do the most of it."

FIVE REFUSE TO SERVE SENTENCES

Sheriff's Records Show Escapes Made Under Commitment Law.

Search is being made for Wallace Sellers and James Roberts, who jumped their commitment law parole within a few hours after they were turned over to work on the farm of Russell Clark, near Janesville.

Sellers was arraigned in municipal court for not paying a board bill. Judge Harry Maxfield decided to give the youth opportunity of meeting his obligation by working on the Clark farm about one o'clock in the afternoon. He didn't even wait for his first farm meal, leaving the place and disappearing before dawn.

The next day James Roberts, who was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail for stealing, was paroled out. He remained for one meal and likewise took a "French leave." He has not been seen since.

According to information given at the office of the sheriff, there have been five men who have jumped their parole in Rock county within the last year. The sheriff's records show that men with dependents or who have a residence in the county generally serve out their parole time.

There are several instances of irresponsible men, floating laborers, violating their parole soon after they are released under commitment law. The statute provides for a penitentiary punishment for violating a commitment parole.

Whether the district attorney will allow the present complaint charging assault with the intent to do great bodily harm to be reduced to a misdemeanor, District Attorney Dunwiddie announced that he is ready to go ahead with the trial on the original charge.

It is charged with assaulting Patrolman Patrick Stein with a dangerous weapon. It is expected that the defense will petition the court to have the complaint changed to plain assault or disorderly conduct.

On account of the case in circuit court, that in municipal court charge on Ryan with intoxication, has been adjourned Dec. 27. The case against Hossian, for reckless driving is set for the same date.

DU PONT LEADERS TO VISIT SAMSON

be opened up fully the currency conditions between nations will have to be more stabilized. It is hoped to use export trade means of running the year around at the Samson with a uniform high production. The demand for tractors and farm implements is pointed out, is sure to be curtailed during the winter months. By spreading to South American and Continental Europe where season varies from these in the United States, it is hoped to keep a continual demand on production here.

It is expected that much of the affairs of the G. M. C. will come under the leadership of J. A. Haskell, vice president, who comes to the Samson with Mr. Craig. Haskell is a du Pont man and has been connected with the G. M. C. with Mr. Durant for some time.

Will Durant, dynamic energy of that will be missed is certain, for it is held, no one man can direct all the reins of the many G. M. C. plants with complete fidelity ability. G. M. C. officials here express marvel at the extreme capacity of Durant during his term of office. The former president held the unusual ability of presiding over the most complicated and detailed knowledge concerning each of the G. M. C. branches and of the client and cities in which they were located.

Inasmuch as Pierre du Pont retains leadership on the road and will there will be created a staff of officers each having jurisdiction over certain lines of G. M. C. activities. It is expected that the du Ponts will come to Janesville on the inspection and conference tour.

Interests Friendly. Men who have the knowledge of the stock movements which resulted in the resignation of Durant, declare that the du Ponts are the most cordial and friendly feelings. They have reasons to believe it was not a move of animosity or attempt to "knif" Durant on the Wall Street bazaar, but rather that the du Pont financial interests stepped into the breach to aid Durant at the most critical moment. They are reasonable to believe, in their opinion, that after a short period of rest and recuperation of personal affairs, the du Ponts will appear on the industrial horizon as a dominating figure.

It was openly published in the New York exchange papers that the du Pont money coming in to buy the Durant block of stock saved the former president.

Encouraging. Just a few items showing the difference between the high point, war period prices and those of the present:

Sugars, 34c; now 19c.
Flour, $4.50; now $3.00.

These are the big staples that run into money.

URGES NEW LAWS ON IMMIGRATION

Women Hear Beloit Instructor's Plan to Solve Big Problem.

A clear and logical presentation of facts pertaining to immigration was given by Prof. Ballard of Beloit college Saturday afternoon at the Beloit Y. W. C. A. The women of the Y. W. C. A. and other club women who were guests. He outlined the problem as connected with political, social, racial and economic relationships of the country.

He specified many causes which have induced increased immigration to this country, the breaking up of homes abroad, the restlessness resulting from the war, increased taxation in the countries abroad to pay war debts, the prospect of securing release from war drafts by becoming citizens of this country and the genuine liking for American people everywhere by the soldiers of American troops among the European peoples.

The cause for alarm in this country is that the undisciplined and untrained immigrants are becoming a burden to the women and children, the cripples and the physically unfit, he said. These are becoming a cause of anxiety for thinking people everywhere by the breaking up of homes abroad, the restlessness resulting from the war, increased taxation in the countries abroad to pay war debts, the prospect of securing release from war drafts by becoming citizens of this country and the genuine liking for American people everywhere by the soldiers of American troops among the European peoples.

He advocated wise legislation for dealing with the problem of immigration and better care of the immigrant when he arrives. To get him grounded in the principles of American government on his entering this country, would be a big help in securing better citizenship, he said.

FARMERS' EYES ON LOCAL MEETING

Interest in farm bureau matters is centered on the report to be made whether the products company stock has been sold sufficiently to start incorporating when the executive committee meets in the court house tomorrow afternoon.

Reports will be made from the township chairmen and solicitors and if the full 500 shares have been secured the matter of incorporation will be started this month. The bureau members of the town of Janesville will meet Tuesday evening in the court house. The Walworth county meeting is scheduled

A SWEETHEART AT THIRTY

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

Synopsis of Pleading Chapters.
Enid Haines is the old maid aunt of all the family. She is a daily reminder of hard work, with almost no diversion. Her husband, Jim, a farmer, is dead, and her only son, James, is a young farmer near by, and her favorite of the family, Violet, is not yet 18.

Violet insists on going to college in the city, and Aunt Enid gives her for small inheritance and decides to go along to take care of her. The villagers gossip about this, since Enid's one time beau, Mark Upjohn, a widower, is back in the village, looking for a wife. Enid being 35 and looking 50, is considered almost hopelessly old and on the shelf.

CHAPTER XIX.
THE GIRL HELPS
Pleasant as the man or woman who does a mean act under the guise of kindness. The type is the worst of sinners. For he (or she) pretends to goodness, and thereby doubles the sin.

For several days following the announcement Enid made, I went about feeling dazed and hopeless. What good was it that I had at last awakened from the lethargy in which I had lived? Before I had been vaguely unhappy and wretched. This, I find, is the fate of many women—now I was acutely unhappy. I was in the middle stage—I did not know exactly what I wanted, nor how to go and get it. I merely knew that life was intolerable, and that the way out seemed to be for Violet and myself to go to the city. Then we would be free from the family, at least.

"You had one great weapon," Violet said, a few days after Enid had said I was not to go. "That was your money. Money is power—but it doesn't seem to be any use, does it, if they won't accept it? You might as well have no money at all, for a while I agreed with her, and for a while we worked together in silence. 'Oh, course, I won't go to college if you don't come along to take care of me,' Violet added. But to this I would not agree.

"Wait," I advised her. "Things will settle down and we'll settle down moved when Mark came up, but Laura sometimes came and sat with us. Vi, who disliked him, found an excuse to study and went indoors. It was Enid who led the conversation.

"I hear you've a fine house and business," she would say. "That in itself was enough to keep Mark going all evening."

"How's Mrs. Diggs' cousin Jane?" she would ask during a lull in the talk. And an hour of gossip would result. Enid extracted an amazing number of perfectly useless facts from our guests.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE:

If Columbus was alive today it would be a cinch for him to find out the world is round. All old Chris would have to do would be to drop into any movie show and wait for the world to roll right pass him in the "Pictorial News of the Week." I was feeling sleepy last night but not quite ready for bed, so I dropped in at a beautiful plaster of Paris movie palace for a little nap and woke up just as the news of the world was sliding by.

I saw seals feeling at home off the coast of Greenland and General Wrangle's army hurrying away from some place without even pausing to wrangle. (Joke.) I saw a fire in London and I saw an action picture of that bird that just won the Nobel prize for literature. Maybe you read something about him while you were turning the pages towards the bargain ads. He's a Swede, or a Norwegian, or some kind of a Scowwegian (not that I hold it against him because we can't all be born here) and it seems when he was a young man he was in this country working as a conductor on a Chicago horse car till he got canned for collecting his thoughts instead of his fares.

And I heard the sink in the seat back of me say to his fair nurse—"I must have been his nurse because he needed a nurse." "See, that shows what a free country this is. He worked here a while and then he was at perfect liberty to go home and write a great book and get the Nobel prize for it."

They also showed a picture of that little 8 year old Polish kid with the encephalitis name who's been beating the whole world playing chess. He looks something like our baby in the face, and it gave me a sudden dread that maybe the baby will beat me at checkers when he's about a year old. If he does, believe me, Tessie, he gets his first spanking and it won't be a spanking in name only. It's a well enough in the movies but I'm not going to stand for any infant wonders around the house. All, JOE.

either cut flowers or a handsome potted plant. This is always in perfect taste, always acceptable, probably less expensive than any other suitable gift you could make, and is neither formal nor informal but just a charming expression of gratefulness and good wishes.

A Chaparrone's Duties
"Dear Miss Page—My son's fraternity is giving a New Year's Eve dance and the boys have asked me to be a chaparrone. Just what are the duties of a chaparrone?—Mrs. M."

A chaparrone at such an affair is usually expected to assist the hosts somewhat as well as chaparroning their guests. She should arrive promptly on the hour of the dance.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

"Puzzled Peg?" I have not space in the column to plan entertainments. Talk the matter over with your teachers, who doubtless will have good ideas.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a working girl and have my dear old mother to support. I am truly glad that I have her, but I realize the way everything is that it is impossible for me to get along.

Mother needs a doctor's care. She needs to be taking medicine. Her eyes need attention and while I can provide her a living and clothe her I can't possibly do anything else.

I have a brother and sister married who do not do anything for mother to speak of. Sometimes they give her a dollar or two a month and they know of her condition.

I notice of late that mother doesn't seem like herself. She studies so much and sometimes she will say, "When I am gone I will be out of the way." It breaks my heart, for I try every way to make her happy. She thinks she is a burden, but as long as she lives she is real happiness and sunshine to me.

I hate to see her so sad and ill when as little as five or six dollars a day could make her comfortable and perhaps win her a new home. Everything a good, loving mother could be. Why should children treat an old mother in this way?

or a little before, to assist in receiving. Each young man should bring his guest to meet her; if he does not, she may suggest that he do so. She should endeavor to see that all of the young people have a happy time, and it is quite within her privilege (if not a duty) very tactfully to remind any young man of his duty should he momentarily forget it in the excitement.

The chaparrone should be a friend in need to the stranger and the wait-flower. She should see to it that the party breaks up at a reasonable hour, and should remain until the last young woman has left.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, and the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy from the country. I just came into school this fall. I am very much surprised at the disrespectful way the boys treat the girls.

One thing I would like to know is this, what does it mean for a boy to walk at a girl with his left arm?

I haven't the least idea what it means. I wouldn't advise you to try it.

No doubt men are just as foolish as women, but you seldom hear of a man suing a woman for breach of promise.

FASHIONS

Heavy jeweled girdles are worn the hips. Two-toned ribbon is being used underwaist. Many lovely frocks are made crepe de chine.

Jaris shows a decided liking for shapely suits of homespun cheviot. SWEETS FOR CHILDREN. Sweets are good for children—thats the right kind at the right time. Dates, raisins, stewed fruits, shrimps, puddings, sugar cookies are better than candy. Give them at mealtimes.

Between meals let them have bread and butter, a cracker or fruit. This won't spoil the appetite and can't hurt.

19 Eggs A Day From 23 Hens, In Winter. Mr. Dunn's Hens Increased Yields. Plan Is Easily Tried.

"We have 23 chickens and haven't had an egg all winter. In five days after feeding Don-Sung, we got 19 eggs a day in three weeks. We were getting 10 to 12 a day; in five weeks we got 19 to 22 a day. —John Dunn, Box 102, Cherry Valley, N. Y."

INSURANCE
BARGAINS IN INSURANCE RATES

The recent collapse of the National Merchants' and Manufacturers' Exchange of Chicago, is an example of what may be expected of other similar concerns who issue insurance policies at cut rates. The list of policy holders against whom suits have been brought by the receiver to collect assessments includes a number of big corporations who have been caught in the net simply because they wanted to "save a little on their insurance rates."

Receiver George J. Kuebler declares that he will prosecute to the bitter end and will permit no policy holder to escape payment of the big assessments which will be levied. One policy holder who had a $2,000 policy, paid a premium of $60.00. He was charged more than he otherwise would have been because he was given a guarantee that he would not be assessed. The attorney in fact assessed him $93.48. He did not pay this and now the receiver has placed his assessment at $150. Judgment by default has already been gotten against this man because he did not get his notice in time to act.

The failure of this concern following closely upon the heels of the downfall of the American Indemnity Exchange of California, a similar assessment proposition, is a fair warning of others which will also go to the wall.

Insurance can not be written at inadequate rates.

P. O. FACES HUGE DEFICIT FOR 1920

Burleson's Annual Report Shows Assets Far Behind.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Dec. 13.—Operation of the United States postal service for the fiscal year 1920 resulted in a deficit of $17,370,482—the second largest in the history of the service—Postmaster General Burleson shows in his annual report today to the president, in which expenditures of the Post Office department are placed at $454,322,509 and revenues at $437,152,027. The postmaster general charges congress with direct responsibility for the deficit, explaining that the expenditures included, approximately $202,000 paid as a way bonus to postal employees and stating that but for this there would have been a surplus of $18,427,917. Mr. Burleson says he declined to approve the bonus action of the legislative department, adding that he offered suggestions of another plan for compensating the employees which would have served the purpose without at the same time giving a blanket increase in pay to thousands who were already amply compensated.

"The postmaster general feels constrained to point out that if a prompt halt is not called and such a policy is persisted in, there will be a deficiency for the next fiscal year of approximately $36,000,000 and the postal establishment will cease to be self-sufficient. It should be, and will become a constantly increasing burden upon the general treasury."

Reference also is made to the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, granting the railways additional pay aggregating $5,102,385 for carrying the mails. This served likewise to offset increases in postal receipts, Mr. Burleson declares.

Administration Is Progressive

In his discussion of his administration of the postal service, the postmaster general says:

"The present postal administration has been one of continuous and permanent progress. Improvement. Nothing has been left undone that was within the authority of the postmaster general to do to effect readjustments in the interests of the people as a whole and not in that of any special class."

"The Air Mail Service, which has been operated successfully since its inauguration, May 15, 1918, has been extended across the continent and collaterally and further extension by contract service inaugurated. The Parcel Post Service, both domestic and international, has been greatly extended and facilities for handling parcels improved, 260 foreign countries and colonies now being reached by this service."

City Delivery Improved.

"City Delivery Service has been extended, the established service in all the larger cities materially improved, and the Government owned motor-vehicle service, inaugurated in 1914, has been established in 163 cities."

"The Railway Mail Service has been operated with increased efficiency under the space system, facilities for the hauling of mail materially improved, and the service firmly established upon a scientific basis."

"War conditions have been overcome in the Foreign Mail Service, which has been brought back to normal and is rapidly improving."

"The Money Order Service and the Postal Savings System have rapidly recovered from war conditions and are in most satisfactory operation."

The Rural Mail service was extended during the fiscal year to more than 600,000 additional persons and the facilities of the service systematized and improved.

Registry Service Better.

"There has been still further improvement in the registry and insured parcel post systems and the methods of handling dead letters."

"A large number of important improvements have been made in the mail-equipment shop, facilitating the work, adding to the compensation and the comforts of the employees, and at the same time lowering, by efficient methods, the unit cost of production."

"Salaries of employees in all grades have been increased and working conditions and conveniences improved wherever possible."

Attention is again directed by the postmaster general to the growth of organizations among the postal employees and he urges that steps be taken to "curb the malicious and pernicious influence" of these organizations upon the postal personnel. "Postal employees have become bold because of this affiliation and have within recent years threatened to strike," Mr. Burleson adds, "and they actually did so by sending their resignations and leaving in a body. In this case, they were promptly indicted and prosecuted in the federal courts."

More Far Countries Reached.

Mr. Burleson recounts the development of the foreign mails service of which a feature is the Trans-Pacific, South American and Mexican services. He says that in the most recent year the number of countries and colonies reached by American service was increased from 45 to 260. With respect to South America, the Postmaster General says there is still room for improvement through the medium of faster sea transportation. Mail facilities to Mexico continued to improve during the year so that mail service "at present is on the whole better than at any time since 1914," Mr. Burleson says.

"Turning from the general administrative work to detail matters, the head of the department says that the receipts from postage on mail aggregated $391,552,205, a decrease of 1.76 percent from last year. Of the total amount, $38,060,756 was derived from mailings on which the postage was paid in money. He points out that the total postage bill was equivalent to $3.65 per capita for the nation. Parcel post revenues, Mr. Burleson estimates, aggregated approximately $150,000,000 or $10,000,000 more than in the previous year. Postage on second class mailings produced $25,107,841, an increase of more than $3,000,000 over 1919."

Free Mail Increased.

There has been an "immense increase" in the amount of mail handled free by the postal service, Mr. Burleson declares, adding that "the free mailings of members of congress and the various establishments of the government under the franking privileges," cost in handling and transportation approximately $9,400,000.

The volume of mail of all kinds likewise has increased, the report shows, and Mr. Burleson urgently recommends the establishment of greater plants, especially in New York and Chicago, where the situations are represented as particularly acute. One-fifth of all the second class mail matter, handling originates in New York City and Mr. Burleson recommends the construction there of three great buildings, costing in the aggregate about $2,000,000 to go together with a tunnel connection between them to expedite the handling of mails. He also recommends the construction of one large building in Chicago.
